

“ The law of love
Knows no bounds of space and time. “

As quoted by Mahatma Gandhi.

To serve with love was his message and Mahatma as he was called was able to free India from the clutches of the Britishers with the dagger of ‘ True love for all.’ In quintessential we are all connected with the same thread, through the same essence. Each one of us are made in the image of God. In his words, “ Love has nothing to do with which country we belong to or how rich or poor we are or what religion we follow. Love is like a river. It flows everywhere uniting all. “

Dear young readers, I dedicate this issue to The Father of our Nation, whose life itself was a message for us. He had dedicated his life to the service of others and to a cause much larger than himself, for national independence through non violence. He was doing God's work. God's work is not in serving the idol in a place of worship but in reality, to serve the living human race in a way, one can best do. As Gandhiji aligned himself to doing more and more of God's work in the way of serving people through love and compassion, God started doing his work. The energy of God started flowing through him and he was able to free India from British rule.

My dear children, today I want each one of you to develop the quality of feeling connected with each other, feeling love emanate from every cell of your body such that LOVE becomes the fragrance of your personality. Wherever you go, leave the fragrance of love.

I would like to narrate a story here:-

Once there was a young boy who asked his father about the supreme. Wanting to explain to the child through actions, the father asked the boy to place a lump of salt in water and leave it. The next day the father asked the boy to remove the salt from the water. The young boy looked into the water but was unable to find the salt. Why was this so? The salt had dissolved in the water. When the father asked the boy to taste the water, the water tasted salty. The father once again asked the boy to see the salt. The boy gently replied to his father, “ I cannot see the salt, father. I only see water which tastes salty.” With this the father replied, “ None of us can see the supreme, we can only feel HIM with and within us always. That is the thread which links each one of us and is the essence of this universe. As such we should feel love for each other through we will be able to identify the supreme. “

Let us for once take a pledge in this sacred month of October when India was blessed with a pure soul like Mahatma Gandhi:

“ To make love the fragrance of our personality.

To be able to do everything through this one word called LOVE leaving behind the lingering fragrance wherever we go. “

To conclude with a quote from Revered Mahatria,

“ LOVE ALL AND LOVE ALL THE TIME. “
